

SUSTAINABLE DEVELOPMENT GOALS

12.2.8 Ensuring these policies extend to outsourced suppliers and the supply chain - (suppliers of equipment, stationary, building contracts)?

YES, UBT is dedicated to ensuring that its environmental policies extend to outsourced suppliers. This commitment to environmental responsibility is a key factor in the university's contracting decisions, as seen in its collaboration with Camillo Sirianni, the exclusive supplier of furniture for UBT (See Evidence No.1 UBT furniture provider).

Camillo Sirianni is a certified member of the Consortium Ecological Panel, which was established to meet the need for sustainable practices and the re-use of resources, particularly in wood recovery. This consortium represents a robust commitment to environmental stewardship, facilitating a cyclical process in which wood is collected, recovered, and transformed into new, functional products. Furthermore, Camillo Sirianni aligns with eco-friendly principles by setting high environmental standards. Its policy emphasizes pollution prevention, reduction of emissions and waste, responsible resource use, and compliance with both international regulations and voluntary environmental standards. The company also prioritizes supplier partnerships with those committed to environmental protection.

Lineablue is a furniture line created specifically for UBT upholds these principles, reinforcing the university's commitment to sustainable choices in its procurement processes.

Through careful selection of vendors like Camillo Sirianni, UBT not only minimizes its environmental impact but also advocates for broader, community-oriented efforts to preserve resources, protect nature, and promote sustainable practices in every aspect of its supply chain.
